Instructional Materials Technology Information

Since EdReports released its first reviews five years ago, the materials landscape has changed dramatically, especially in the area of technology. District questions have evolved from ensuring materials could be accessed on older browsers and versions of operating systems to detailed questions about interoperability, compatibility, security, support, and digital design. These questions have become even more important during the pandemic as districts assess what instructional materials may work best in their communities not just in-person, but also remotely and in hybrid settings. Access to high quality instructional materials by all students is more important than ever, and technology plays an essential role in that access. To help provide technology information for materials that meet alignment criteria in Gateways 1 and 2, EdReports has requested publishers answer the following questions to help consumers better understand the digital design and capabilities of their instructional materials.

- Section 1 provides broader questions most frequently asked of EdReports about the design of materials. These questions are meant to provide higher level, summary information.
- Section 2 provides more fine-grained details on aspects of design and functionality.

Considerations When Reading This Document

- EdReports is seeking the most accurate, descriptive information about curricular products. We are not evaluating quality or desirability, but documenting features in materials to empower local schools and districts with information to select materials that will work best for them given their technological capabilities and instructional vision.
- The information in this document comes directly from publishers. EdReports reviewed the information for clarity and consistency, but did not verify its accuracy. Questions you have regarding any of the reported information should be directed to the publisher of the product.
- Look at the information in the “Details” column carefully. Functionality and digital design can vary greatly depending on how a publisher responded. Most publishers provide granular information for each question to illuminate their responses.
- This document is most effective when paired with questions that relate to your local context and reviewed with both content and IT staff. Consider your district’s technological access and capacity amongst students, teachers, and schools.

* Note:

“Yes with core product” below should be used to indicate functionality in the core materials as reviewed by EdReports that are available without LMS integration.

“Yes with dependencies” below refers to functionality in the materials reviewed by EdReports that are present or accessible only through working in a separate LMS, by utilizing other software as a plug-in, linking externally to sites outside the materials, or if functionality is dependent on a supplemental purchase.

Questions	Check Only One				Details
	Yes with core product	Yes with dependencies	No	Under Development
Are the materials designed so that students are able to access and complete work online?		Yes			Students and teachers are able to access materials 24/7 at home or school. The digital e-book (Student Worktext), Digital Math Tools, Interactive Practice, Learning Games, assessments and personalized digital lessons are all accessible to students within their i-Ready dashboard (native materials). No LMS integration is required. Students need a reliable internet connection to access digital materials, and a device. Students need a reliable internet connection to access these materials and a device.

Do the materials support learning in hybrid settings (both in-person and remote learning) concurrently?	Yes				Educator Guidance to implement hybrid and distance learning is provided: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• https://www.curriculumassociates.com/supporting-students-away-from-school/ready-classroom-mathematics-educator-guidance</li> <li>• https://readyclassroomcentral.com/articles/supporting-distance-learning-with-ready-classroom-mathematics/</li> </ul> The lesson design allows for hybrid learning. Students complete the opening of the lesson (Try It), remotely and can work in class or through online gatherings to discuss strategies used, analyze and critique the reasoning of others, and discuss connections between multiple strategies. Students can use the print Student Worktext, eBook (digital Student Worktext), digital Learning Games, and Interactive Practice to support remote learning. In addition to the print Student Worktext, teachers have access to Lesson Slides and Interactive Tutorial lessons that can be projected for students in class or during remote learning sessions. When used with i-Ready Personalized Instruction (available for additional purchase), remote learning is supported with scaffolded, engaging and interactive digital lessons that allow students to work independently on personalized goals and instructional paths. These lessons can be done in school or at home.
Are tasks, activities, and lessons able to be printed either for in-class use or for use in at-home learning?	Yes

Is there instruction so students can work independently (or with an adult at home)?	Yes				Instruction is provided through the print write-in Student Worktext or the digital Student Worktext. Students attempt strategies to new problems and then compare these to the strategies provided in the book. This may require an adult for early readers in younger grades, but can usually be done independently in older grades. Practice is provided in print and digital formats. Students can work independently on Additional Practice in the Student Worktext as well as on Learning Games and Interactive Practice, both which provide immediate feedback to support students. Assessments are provided in print and digital formats. The Digital Comprehension Check assessments can be completed online at home independently. When used with i-Ready Personalized Instruction (available for additional purchase), the digital personalized instructional lessons can be done independently, providing students with feedback and requiring limited adult support.
Does the technology facilitate a teacher's ability to differentiate lessons, tasks, or other content for students?	Yes				The i-Ready Diagnostic assessment generates a Prerequisites Report that automatically groups students based on how well they know the prerequisite skills needed for the upcoming lessons and provides links to instructional resources for each group. These reports guide teachers to print and digital resources they can use with students including Interactive Tutorials, Interactive Practice, and Digital Learning Games ,which all provide feedback to students as they work. PDF resources found on the Teacher Toolbox support reteaching (Tools for Instruction), Center Activities, Enrichment, games, and practice.

					When used with i-Ready Personalized Instruction (available for additional purchase), the digital lessons are automatically assigned to students and automatically differentiate instruction based on students' needs, as identified by the Diagnostic. Teachers can elect to assign specific lessons to students' path, as well. All of these lessons provide feedback to students as they work.
